

INFOSCREEN ESTABLISHES STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP WITH BLUESTORM TECHNOLOGIES

Ithaca and Binghamton, NY – September 1, 2004 – InfoScreen, Inc., a provider of information security risk management services, has entered into a strategic partnership with BlueStorm Technologies, Inc., a developer of web based business solutions.

The partnership between InfoScreen and BlueStorm is built upon the firms' shared focus on enterprises that rely on the efficient and reliable transfer of sensitive company data. The relationship began in 2003 when InfoScreen was engaged to evaluate the security of a BlueStorm developed intranet before the client went live with new functionality. This chance encounter drew attention to overlapping areas of expertise and opportunities for collaboration.

According to Rich Sheiman, President of InfoScreen "We knew about a Domino development firm working for one of our key clients. What we didn't know was our shared vision for how we can help Intellectual Property driven companies to protect their information assets while also making sure that appropriate employees and partners always have access to the information. Web based business systems are an increasingly double edged sword to industry, fostering competitiveness but also posing security risks as incredibly rich data repositories. By working collaboratively, BlueStorm and InfoScreen are able to maximize data availability while minimizing security risk at both the technical and organizational levels."

Robert Matson, President of BlueStorm Technologies, also recognizes opportunities to create new value for clients "Security has always been a high-priority for BlueStorm when developing client solutions. With our customers deploying Internet and Extranet-based solutions that are accessed across the globe, building secure systems is paramount. By partnering with InfoScreen we will be able to augment our development and integration competencies with a security offering that reaches beyond technical security to focus on organizational-level security."

About InfoScreen, Inc.

InfoScreen is an information security risk management firm. The firm principally works for manufacturers of engineered products, helping them to better protect their hard earned Intellectual Property. InfoScreen applies a balanced approach across Technology, Physical, and Organizational information security risk sets. The firm recognize the pitfalls of imbalanced security, which is increasingly characterized by strong network security while employee awareness and other elements of the Human Firewall remain weak.
